33RD YEAR—NO. 31.

WARNING TO RAW OYSTER SHIPPERS OF GULF COAST

United States Supervision To Be Very Exact—Department of Agriculture Quotes the Law.

Within a very short time the raw oyster industry will begin to get busy. Millions of raw oysters will be caught, opened and shipped by the coast packers to all inland points of the United States. The department of agriculture, bureau of chemistry, has charge of the supervision of this great industry, and are to see that the laws relative to sanitation, etc., etc., are complied with to the letter.

The following letter from A. L. Burns, chief of the New Orleans station, makes the laws on the subject very plain, and after its publication there can be no excuse for anyone violating the law:

To the Shippers of Gulf Coast Raw Oysters.

The federal food and drugs act requires that shucked oysters shipped in interstate commerce be clean and free from contamination, filth or decomposition; that they contain no added water as a result of soaking, through the packing of ice with the oysters or through other means, and that the containers bear a plain and conspicuous statement of the quantity of the contents. The shipment in interstate commerce of shucked oysters which do not comply with these requirements renders the oysters liable to seizure and the shipper liable to criminal prosecution.

Oysters should be taken only from waters which are known to be free from pollution and the shucking should be conducted in such manner as to prevent any possibility of contamination. Shucking houses and their equipment should be kept thoroughly clean and the proper facilities should be provided to enable employees to keep clean at all times. Toilet and washing facilities are absolutely necessary and competent supervision should be exercised to insure that employees handling the product are healthy and cleanly in their habits. Oysters from polluted areas or that have been contaminated by insanitary handling are a menace to the public health, and their shipment in interstate commerce violates not only the federal food and drugs act but also the interstate quarantine regulations of the United States Public Health Service.

If proper precautions are taken during shucking to prevent contamination the amount of washing required will not be great, although undoubtedly some washing will be necessary. Clean and unpolluted water should be used for this purpose. If a blower or other form of mechanical agitation is used, it should be kept clean and the sediment should be removed after each washing. A fresh supply of clean water should be used for each washing; the period of blowing should not be over three minutes unless salt solution is used. The strength of the solution should be from 1 to 2 per cent, depending upon the salinity of the water in which the oysters were grown. Salt solution should be used for all forms of washing, where the duration exceeds five minutes. Packages of shucked oysters should be marked with a plain and conspicuous statement of net measure, or where there is a trade custom of marking by net weight, a statement of net weight may be used. Statements of net count alone are not regarded as satisfactory, although such statements may be used in addition to the statement of net measure or net weight. The required statement may be made by means of a tag firmly affixed to the package, provided the statement is plain and conspicuous.

These requirements of the law are being called to your attention with the suggestion that such arrangements be made as are necessary to comply with the law at the beginning of the next shipping season. Your co-operation in the matter is solicited.

Respectfully,
A. L. BURNS,
Chief, New Orleans Station.

AFTER TAX DODGERS.

The authorities at Kiln are ever on the job, seeking malefactors whose regard for the law is of small proportion.

Lander Necaise, the efficient constable of that little city, arrested several this week for violating the automobile law. Among those who suffered arrest for not providing 1924 license plates were: Wiley Bibbo, Xavier Curet, N. M. Perkins and Geo. Curet. Andrew Henley was caught in the net of the law, but proved to be the chauffeur for Geo. Curet.

The offenders were tried before Judge Puentes and fined $10 and costs, besides having to purchase 1924 license plates.

The economic development that has occurred in the South during the last decade has materially improved the outlook for the various railroad systems which serve it. The South has forged ahead at a very rapid pace during the last few years and the progress has been reflected in the increased traffic and larger revenues of its common carriers.

COLUMB DE BULL BACK ON BOARDS—LETTER TO RED HOGAN.

By Fuller Bull.

Mister Red Hogan
Greenwich Village.
Dear Sorrel Top:—

Aye, an' it's been a long spell since we had the joy of writin' you. We know you've been pinin' your young life away for want of word. But the fact is, Red, me boy, the boss says to us one day, says he: "Fuller the trouble with you is that some of the population are onta yer curves and the census takers of intelligence are sayin' that you're one too many in the game an' are de mandin' yer release, then an' therefore back to the bench for you!"

Red, we gives the Boss of the print plant the once over, makin' sure the bird ain't stallin', an' we says: "Boss, we mind the fact that some blokes put a pin in yer shoe, else ye gotta egg in yer hip and are fraid to sit down on him. Now, give yer ear an' I'll fill it with the fact that the guy what's givin' ye the W. J. Bryan ain't named the consensus of opinion."

So we cut the U. S. M., Red, an' it ain't a moon till a flock of wise birds are ridin' the interrogation point on the Boss an' wantin' to know what's the matter with F. B. So the Boss parks on our trail again, but we ambled long without a peep, payin' no mindta nothin'. A big guy (one of these gazoaks what's in on the savvy) comes in when we're punchin' the alphabet, holds us up and says: "Fuller, get to it, I found out that the guy what's been stringin' the Boss on the Intelligence Line is the same geezer what went to a three ringer once and shed bitter tears all the time the main clown was doin' his do. This guy was borned without a funny bone, an' a comedy would give him Cystitis Melancholia (that's known as the death weep)." Then the Boss calls for copy, Red, an' she goes for the knocks down line till she takes the count.

The "Briny" is luff of innocence here these days, Reddy, in all 'e colors of Mrs. Grogan's new bonnet, them what's got the costly adornment steerin' clear of the naughty waves and only doin' the strut out where there's a possible Movie scout hoverin'. Them's what they got monickered at Bathin' Beauties. Some Beauties, Red, but they give the gate to the "Bathin'" end of it. Nix on the soak for them, they don't come all the way from the McShane burg just to get wet. Jerry was out at the last show, Pinky, an' I says: "They gotta few of the nifty Venuses, eh?" "Ah, g'wan, Fuller, them dolls ain't all to the Nature, there's a brace of them birds what, when they was passin' out the looks, was rubbin' outta the sixth story window at a circus parade." If Jerry was the guy to pass out the prizes at the show, the warehouse, would soon fill up with unused stock.

But we gotta have one of them old timer Fireman Parade next month, it's dop'd to be in Class A. Them bir's are to get out all the junk what they got inventoried, besides the head pieces an' etec. They decided to have a Made-of-Honor and the choice will go to Biscuit Ladner, who'll ride the flower truck, and when that bird gets doped up in the ruffles, he'll knock the "Beauts" for a row of rad's.

They's also goint' put on a Full Day out at Park where everyting from a shaved Grunter to a slippery pool will be on the menu. All like the time when Hook an' Ladder No. 1 dragged us kids along the trail.

The best part of the day will be the Great Am. Pastime game when the "Eagle Eyes" cross bats with the "Tigers". Red, you'll wanta know where them birds get on the fancy monickers. Well, them's the old names, Red, and they carry the board in the days of Maud Muller. Now, in this time, as per the local Almanac; they ain't a chance, for them Eagles all sport goggles an' the old time claws of the feline have ben worn to a frazzle. All these has-beens got in stock is a line of air, an' the chances are that their who can pull the bluff loudest will head the score.

The Mgr. of the Eagles is no less c'lebrity than the old sleuth what's ben tryin' to keep order in this burg so long. An' the Mgr. of the Tigers is the guy what runs the "hello" system here. I like to see him in action, for the harder he plays the redder gets his dome.

They's picked out "Pork-Chop" Toule an' yours sincerely to do the Umps stunt an' if we live thru the barrage, Red, the chances are that you'll be pu' Hep.

Yours etec
FULLER.

CHURCH FESTIVAL SUCCESSFUL.

The two-day summer festival that took place on the lawn of St. Stanislaus College last Saturday and Sunday evenings, proved, in a measure, successful. The returns of net proceeds are usually slow in coming in after all such fairs, and this particular one is no exception to the rule. A gross total of over fourteen hundred dollars has been accounted for, and it is confidently expected that the net returns will show something over thirteen hundred dollars as a realization.

Rev. Father Gmelch is enthusiastic in his praise of the work performed by those who labored so industriously towards its success, and desires, through these columns, to express his heartfelt gratitude to those who conducted the fair, as well as those who assisted by their presence in making it successful.

Mr. E. J. Lacoste, who was the executive chairman of the festival, has his personal card of thanks elsewhere in these columns.

GIRLS LEAVE FOR A. AND M. COLLEGE

Hancock County Representation To Be Largest From Coast Counties.

Hancock county should feel justly proud of its representation this year at the State Short Course, in session at Agricultural and Mechanical College. This includes two girls from the Girls' Club at the Central School, one from the Convent, one woman from the county, one girl not representing any club, and Miss O'Dom, which makes six in all.

The Home Demonstration Agent, Miss O'Dom, has been here only a comparatively short while, yet she has done wonderful work. Due to her efforts our representation is the largest of any of the Coast counties.

This trip to the Agricultural and Mechanical College is a reward of merit to the girls who do the work which is required of them. They will be there for ten days. These ten days are full of work and play, for work must be interspersed with play to achieve the desired effect. This is all under the supervision of experts in each line.

Let us hope that these girls will come home so full of interest and a desire to do, that they will instill it into others for the future. Next year we shall have an even larger number to take advantage of the opportunities which our State offers them.

LONG DISTANCE CALLS AT PEAK DURING SUMMER

Vacationists Add to Telephone Toll Traffic For Months of July and August.

During the months of July and August long distance telephone service reaches its peak. At no other season of the year are the toll lines taxed to such an extent as when the summer vacationists, in their search for health and recreation, are separated from their homes and places of business.

July is the month when the volume of toll traffic is generally at its greatest, although August runs it a close second. In September there is a gradual decline, but it is not back to normal until about the middle of October. This year June also is considerably above its average because of the Republican and Democratic national conventions in Cleveland and New York.

Another big factor in the increase in toll service during the summer months is the automobile. In the last few years automobile tourists, both in the East and the West, have become more and more numerous, and their demands upon the telephone have increased accordingly.

It is much more difficult to complete a long distance call in the summer than at any other time, as the parties called must be located at clubs, places of amusement, on the golf links, etc., but notwithstanding over 98 per cent of all toll calls ordered by subscribers during the year 1923 were completed.

MEN SHOULD SAVE FIFTH OF INCOME.

What percentage of a man's income should he save?

This is a question frequently asked, and a brief discussion of it might prove of interest to many who have given consideration to the matter.

Some time ago the United States Government Savings System issued a statement that a thrifty man should spend 50 per cent of his income for living expenses; 10 per cent for education; 10 per cent for giving; 10 per cent for recreation, and save 20 per cent. The treasury department has stated that a family of three has $2,000 income, should save $200; a family of four with $3,000 income should save $300; a family of four with $4,000 income should save $400; a family of four with $5,000 income should save $500, and a family of five with $10,000 income should save $2,400.

These figures were undoubtedly arrived at after a close study of the personal economies of many families and are meant to cover average conditions.

While it may be true that the average man in America should save 20 per cent of his personal income, it does not follow by any means that a man who under certain circumstances only saves 10 per cent or even 5 per cent of his income is not just as thrifty as some other man who might save 50 per cent of his income.

There are right duties and obligations that must be met, and their fulfillment must preclude the saving of any considerable sum of money. On the other hand, a man might be so situated that even if he did lay aside 20 per cent of his income he would still be indulging in wasteful habits.

Thrifty is a matter of morals as well as of money. It is self discipline; strength of character; efficiency and a common sense administration of one's affairs.

Save systematically as much as you can consistent with your circumstances in life. Be economical, but not miserly. Eliminate all possible waste.

If one will endeavor honestly to adhere to these practices he will be able to save what is consistent and right and within the meaning of true thrift.

GREAT REUNION OF SOLDIER BOYS AT BIG CONVENTION

155th Infantry and 140th Field Artillery To Be Reunited in Jackson This Week—Final Arrangements Completed.

Jackson, Miss., July 31.—The sixth annual department convention of the American Legion, with which is to be combined the first reunions of the old 155th Infantry and 140th Field Artillery, promises to be one of the most colorful events staged in Mississippi in many a day.

The program for the American Legion convention will include, along with the regular order of business, firework displays, dances, picnics, aviation shows and a number of good speakers which will be worth going miles to hear. Arrangements are being made to care for between 2,500 and 3,000 Legionnaires and their ladies and friends.

The membership of the American Legion in Mississippi have to date within 200 of the entire membership of 1923, more interest being manifested now than at any time in the history of the Legion, with possibly the exception of 1922, when Mississippi took eighth place in nation and world in the standings of departments. Among the other features that will interest the Legionnaires is the mammoth parade which will take place at 2 p. m. on August 4th, which is the opening day of the convention. According to present plans and hopes the parade will extend a mile, replete with colorful uniforms, dazzling floats and blaring bands. The convention closes August 6th, after the election of officers and the naming of convention city for 1925.

The reunion of the old 155th Infantry will be under the supervision of Mitchell Robinson, former captain in the old outfit. This will be the first reunion of the Mississippi boys who went to war as a unit in this infantry, since the war, and it is expected that a number of these men will be in Jackson to attend the reunion and at the same time the American Legion convention.

If there are any details which one should wish, who are desirous of attending the reunion of the 155th Infantry, those parties should communicate direct with Mitchell Robinson, chairman, Jackson, Miss.

140th Field Artillery.

Longstreet Cavett, former major in the 140th Field Artillery, is also located at Jackson and will supervise this reunion. Any information requests concerning this particular reunion should be directed to Mr. Cavett, who should be addressed direct to Mr. Cavett.

MISSISSIPPI BOY WINS HONORS.

Manlius, N. Y., July 23.—A Mississippi boy has won honors at a New York military school. John Wagner has just completed his college preparatory course by graduating from St. John's Military School, at Manlius, New York. Wagner was very active in school affairs. He won the head boy medal, a medal presented each year to the cadet who stands the highest in his academic work for the entire year. Wagner also won the faculty military history medal, a medal awarded annually to the cadet who writes the best essay on military history. He was a second lieutenant and performed the duties of this office very creditably according to school authorities. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wagner, of Water Valley, Miss.

My offer of the 23rd was final, and so far as I am concerned, this matter is a closed incident. I shall, therefore, go my way and let you go yours—unmolested. Yours very truly,
PAT HARRISON.

A cotton crop of 12,144,000 bales has been forecast for this year by the Department of Agriculture.

INFORMAL CHARGE, SAYS SENATOR PAT HARRISON

Prompt and Pointed Reply Made to Gov. Brewer—Incident Closed With Brief Comment.

Jackson, Miss.—Senator Harrison made a prompt and pointed reply to the answer of Governor Brewer to the senator's suggestion for a joint debate at Clarksdale, which answer was published in the Commercial Appeal. Governor Brewer's letter was received at the Pat Harrison headquarters and immediately upon its receipt Eugene Fly, secretary and campaign manager for Senator Harrison, drove to Crystal Springs and returned immediately with the senator's reply, which is in full as follows:

Hon. Earl Brewer, Jackson, Miss.
Dear Governor: I am in receipt of your letter of July 24 in reply to mine of July 17, in which I stated I would be glad to meet you in joint debate in your home city of Clarksdale. Replying to my offer you say: "I do not want to take you to my home town and there expose your record and have the people applaud the exposure, for then you would turn and cry persecution and say that I had mistreated you in my own home."

You could never make me believe the good people of Clarksdale and Coahoma county would treat me discourteously by applauding willful misrepresentations of my record. I suggested Clarksdale for the debate because I wanted it held under conditions, on terms and in an atmosphere most favorable to you.

I quote further from your letter: "The correspondent for one of the great daily papers, reporting your great keynote speech as it fell from your lips, said that you assailed Fall, Denby, Daugherty and Forbes, and that the whole convention waited with bated breath for you to hurl the names of the two arch conspirators, Doheny and Sinclair, into the ring, but, says the correspondent, 'They are waiting yet.' And the people do not understand why two of the greatest criminals that ever conspired to wreck a government stood in such relation to you that you were compelled to avoid any mention of their names. The people are entitled to know what your relations were and are with these men; whether or not you have visited with either or both of them; whether or not you have been riding with either or both of them, and whether or not you have made a trip with either or both of them, and if so what was the object and purpose of it? They are entitled to know this from you in person, before them, and not from any newspaper supporting you, or from a secretary."

I have never before had an opponent make such a campaign of infamy against me—all the others have fought hard, but have been fair.

I am willing to let my whole campaign from now on rest on this infamous charge of yours. My people know me and they know my record. For your information, I want to state, however, that in the speech to which you refer regarding which you quote Republican propaganda—I mentioned Republican officials who had been driven from public life. Later in the convention, when word came from Washington that Doheny and Sinclair had been indicted, I read the telegram conveying the good news to the convention.

My offer of the 23rd was final, and so far as I am concerned, this matter is a closed incident. I shall, therefore, go my way and let you go yours—unmolested. Yours very truly,
PAT HARRISON.

WEEKLY NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENT OF EDUCATION.

By W. F. Bond, Superintendent.

Jackson, Miss., July 26.—In taking care of the outlay made by the Legislature in the equalizing school fund and in carrying out the wishes of the Legislature, the towns and cities and wealthier counties have been eliminated from participation in this fund. The people of the towns and cities have for years said that they wanted to help the farmer, who is really carrying the burden. Furthermore, the separate school districts do not pay the county-wide levy tax for schools, but levy their own tax on the banks, mercantile establishments, manufacturing plants, railroad property, and so forth, within their own district, while the people of the rural districts help very largely to maintain by their patronage. If the rural districts should be destroyed, grass would grow in the streets of most of our towns and cities within a year.

About the only thing the farmer can now do for his children is to provide a good school for them. If we take away this school thousands of farmers will flock to the towns and cities in order to give their children a chance to go to school. Therefore the new plan of disbursing the equalizing fund has been worked out in such a way as not to take the school term of the rural districts of the poorer counties. The people of the towns and cities now have a chance to practice what they have been preaching, that is, do what they can to help the people of the rural districts have better schools.

HYSTERIC HAS TO DO WITH HISTORY.

Educator Gathers Other Samples of Confused Thought; Barbecue Is Place to Get Haircut.

What does K. K. K. mean? Keep Kleveland and Klesland. What raw materials does this country send to China? Missionaries.

What was Pinchot before he became governor? President of the conversation committee. What are hysterics? Something that tells abashistory.

Nams a constitutional right. The right to keep bare arms. These are a few of what William H. Allen, director of the Institute for Public Service, calls "high spots" in the field of education, in an article in the July issue of McClure's Magazine.

He says they are due to confused ideas and a defect in teaching methods which must be paid for later in confused ideas and muddled practices in business and government.

Some other typical examples, taken from questions asked school children, follow:

What is the electoral college? A place for boys who want to learn electricity.

What are election polls? Poles which hold up the voting building.

What is specific heat? Heat the Pacific Ocean gives off.

Why did Germany and Austria lose prestige? I've looked all over the map and I can't find Prestige.

What is a barbecue? A place to get your hair cut.

Why does bread sometimes have holes? Because it is made out of whole wheat.

In what battle did General Wolfe say, when hearing of victory, "I die happy?" I think it was his last.

What is a volcano? A mountain that is sick to its stomach.

A BIG MAN FOR A BIG JOB.

John W. Davis, the Democratic nominee for President, is one of the most prominent lawyers in America. For several years he has been retained by several of the big corporations of New York. Several months ago, when his name was first suggested for President, he was approached by friends to ascertain if it would not be advisable to sever these connections. But he flatly refused to do so, declaring that such a course would be a confession of wrong-doing, of which he was not conscious. In other words, Mr. Davis would not sacrifice the ethics of his honorable profession for the presidency.

In a statement issued shortly after his nomination, Mr. Davis said: "There can be no compromise with reaction. Liberal principals must and will prevail. * * * That this creed and this policy will receive the militant support of all those who call themselves Democrats, I do not doubt for an instant. I shall hope to rally to their aid that great body of liberal, progressive and independent thought that believes that progress is motion, government is action, which detests privilege in whatever form, and which does not wish the American people or their government to stand still or retreat from the midst of a changing world. This is the mandate of the hour and I shall obey it."

Those who feared that the nominee might align himself with the reactionary element of the party will be relieved since his announcement. John W. Davis is thoroughly progressive, with a vision of world needs akin to that of Woodrow Wilson, in whose service he achieved world-wide distinction.

As a member of the American Congress, as chief counsel for the United States government during the Wilson administration, as ambassador to the Court of St. James—a lawyer and a citizen—John W. Davis has rendered honest and faithful public service. There is no stain on his record, public or private, and his nomination will add strength to a cause which is already strongly entrenched in the minds of American citizens who believe in clean government and high ideals.

HOLIDAY AUGUST 6 FIREMEN'S DAY FOR EVERYBODY

Next Wednesday Will Be Celebrated By Local Firemen With Grand Parade Games at Park.

One of the principal things to remember is the fact that on Wednesday, August 6th, the Firemen will celebrate their first grand full-regalia parade through the streets of the city and festival of unusual proportions out at Rock-a-Chaw Park.

The day will be given over as one where everybody is to forget the dull cares of business, cast aside the role of happy boy and girlhood once more; to romp and play at the old games of childhood that sends the red blood coursing through a glad-some heart.

The day is to be a holiday; business will be suspended, and, as Josh Billings said: "An' we won't keef if the old cow never gets milked."

Out at the Rock-a-Chaw Park there will be all sorts of entertainments, no particular person or persons are selected, anyone who so desires may enter the various contests and get all the fun out of it that they can. There will be games for every age, from the little toddler to the old guys who have to watch their steps, from baby sister to granddaddy.

With indefatigable energy and enthusiasm the members of the local Volunteer Fire Company have labored to arrange the sports and entertainments in order to make August 6th the grandest holiday that this old town ever witnessed; everything from the egg race to the greasy pole has been thought of, and they are now only awaiting the day to set off jollification.

You must be reminded of the fact that there will be a game of baseball, one as rich and racy as ever between the boards; this game between the "Eagle Eyes" and the "Tigers"—two picked nines of ancient vintage—will be a distinct feature (it would be a feature in any city) of the program and one that will be remembered for a long time to come.

Refreshments of all kinds will be served on the grounds at very moderate prices.

So when Wednesday comes around lay off the work and give yourself a real holiday—a tonic that every man and woman needs. Follow the parade and go out to Rock-a-Chaw Park. Say to Father Time: "Turn back, O Time, and make me a boy again!" And for once your wish will be granted.

AN OPEN LETTER.

To Whom It May Concern:

As president of the Catholic Neighborhood Circle No. 3, which organization is active in the beautifying and up-keep of St. Mary's Cemetery, it is my pleasure to report that:

Since the Circle has organized the cemetery has been cleaned twice; the cost of the first cleaning was $125.75; the second, $61.00; a total of $186.75.

The third cleaning will begin at a very early date, and those who have not yet contributed towards this worthy end are asked to come forward and assist materially by contributing a sum of money.

It has come to our knowledge that some criticism has been made of the actions of this organization. That the most uncalled for act that could be made, as this body of women are doing their utmost to beautify the last resting place, not only of THEIR OWN dead, but ALL who repose within its sacred precincts, and should have the hearty co-operation of every one interested therein, and at least the admiration of "big game."

The Circle has a balance on hand of $20.00 towards the third cleaning. They request those having deep flowers or trash on graves to please remove them as soon as possible.

Respectfully,
MRS. ELIZABETH BOUDIN,
President.

BOBBED HAIR.

The blooming damsels everywhere have shorn their blond or raven hair, and even damsels advanced in years submit their ringlets to the shears. And some have multiplied their charms, while others look like false alarms. The latter are more often seen; it takes a rarely blooming queen to cut away the flowing locks and not resemble Guy H. Fawkes. I am a relic of the past and often times I stand aghast at modern wrinkles, modern curves; said curves and wrinkles jar my nerves. The women strive again to look like duplicates of men. With manly suits and mannish hats they are not, in their hand-me-downs, like olden dames in flowing gowns. And being old and full of tea, the old ways look the best to me. The girls are smoking, soon they'll chew; they've mastered slang, the old and the new; they go to prize fights with the lads, and on some bruiser lay their heads. Until quite lately I could tell the he-man from the lovely belle; my guesses were not often wrong, while female hair was growing long; I'd note the top-knot and the curl and say, "That critter is a girl." But now I need a telescope if I could have the proper dope. And when the girls begin to grow pink whiskers, who their sex can know?—Walt Mason.

SEE YOUR OWN STATE.

Here we are at the height of the vacation season, and a lot of people are climbing into their flivvers and shoving off for strange places in strange States. They'll have a good time; sure they will. And yet we can't help wondering if they would not have a better time if they devoted their vacation days to sight-seeing right here in their own State.

Why not start out and drive to various parts of the State, without crossing its border? Such a trip is sure to result in a revelation. Not only will you see things you did not know your State possessed, but you will come in closer touch with the people who make it a good State. You will form friendships here and there, in town and country, and you'll enjoy the many conversations you will hold with those who live in the same commonwealth as you do and yet who might as well live in foreign lands as far as your past acquaintance with them is concerned.

You will get a chance to see how other people are improving their towns and cities, and how farmers in other counties of the State are progressing. You'll learn a lot that will be valuable to you from suggestions you will pick up here and there. Maybe, too, you'll find you are living in a much better State than you had any knowledge of, and you'll return to your home and your work better satisfied with your own conditions. There are scores of reasons why you should see your own State first, and one of them is that the expense will not be as great, but the benefits greater than going to some far-off point that offers much and reveals but little.

"DUDE" HELP.

Citizens who are always interested in the annual problem of how to get this nation's wheat crop harvested are commencing to look on "dude labor" in a far different light. At first these young men who flock to the harvest fields of the bounding west were looked on as high school or college boys out for a sight-seeing trip and some good, substantial meals at a little cost. Today they can be counted by the thousands and they've become so valuable that grain growers, already short of help, are forced to admit they are pretty much of a god-send. They have shown that they really want to work and that they don't consider it a crime against society to be caught with their sleeves rolled up and the sweat pouring off of their brows. As a result these "dude" farm laborers are solving the greatest problem the rural communities of America have had to face. They only need encouragement. Give them that and we won't need to look forward with dread each year to a labor shortage at harvest time.

WIDE OPEN GATES.

For over 100 years Americans and Canadians have been the best of neighbors. They have kept the peace and lived happily with each other without the necessity of a military guard along the border. They have set the remainder of the world an example in the matter of dwelling as good neighbors should. But this happy condition is now in danger. No one need be told that a vast amount of the illicit rum trade now going on in this country is due to bootleggers across the Canadian border. Officials of that country know it is being smuggled across, and also that undesirable immigrants from China are being shoved over the line into the United States, the smugglers being well paid for it. We would hate to see our friendly relations with Canada broken off. But from newspaper reports it appears that there is danger in an open rupture if Canada does not show a greater desire to stamp out unlawful bootlegging and smuggling on her side of the border.

IT'S STILL GOOD.

Here's an old one, but still a good one, and we feel sure many folks will get a laugh out of it. It is related that a Wisconsin editor got tired of people asking him for bids on printing, instead of turning the job over to him and telling him to go ahead and do it at his regular price. So he inserted this ad in his paper:

"On Jan. 1 I will be in need of the following: Two pairs of socks, one silk for Sunday use; one pair of good wool pants; six white handkerchiefs for use when needed; one peck of good, unsprouted potatoes; two pounds of rump steak; some souvenir post cards with local views; one quart of molasses. May also be in market for an appendicitis operation for wife. Parties wishing to bid on these supplies should send in sealed offers, with full particulars as to discount for cash and self-addressed envelope for reply in case bid is accepted."

ABOUT PROSPERITY.

Bonus bills, farm aid bills, tariff bills and laws destined to benefit this or that class—what do they usually come to? Despite the example of unhappy Russia, the old delusion that laws can make people prosperous still exists. We have men in all communities who still believe the government can re-distribute wealth, can take it away from the rich and give it to the poor without lessening the total amount. They forget that although a government may destroy wealth, it cannot create it. Nothing but labor can create wealth.

People naturally want to be prosperous, and if they think that laws can make them so they will insist that such laws be passed. But most members of Congress know better; they have seen all the old tricks to fool the public exposed. But they argue that they represent the people, and if the people insist on more laws they are there to make them.

The one law that does more to make us prosperous than any other is not a man-made law. It is the law of supply and demand. If there is a wheat or corn shortage, and the demand for bread is greater than the supply of grain, then wheat and corn will mount in price, and as it mounts wages and most everything else is bound to be effected. So, after all, it is best to remember that the laws the politicians promise you—if he is elected—and which they argue will make you prosperous, are largely bunk and used as a stepping stone to a fat-salaried public job. Labor will create capital, hard work will do more than anything else to bring prosperity. For you never saw a nation of loafers that was a prosperous nation.

BROADCASTINGS.

We agree with the fellow who said that political platforms read like "Yes, we have no bananas."

Our advice to autoists is to say it with brakes and save the flowers.

An Eastern editor says we are not going to last forever. Certainly not. The earth won't last that long.

We see where a New York broker has bought a newspaper. Pretty soon he'll know the difference between being a broker and being broke.

The man who stays out all night will sooner or later get into the habit of looking on the dark side of life.

Our idea of a real news item is something good that happens to somebody that we wish happened to us.

Maybe the reason a lot of bum actors get by in the movies is because people never throw bricks at the movies.

A woman may do a lot of foolish things, but you never saw her sit on a box and whistle or spit tobacco juice at a little boy's bare feet.

The nation's wealth is now put at $362,000,000,000. The last three figures represent our part of it.

FACTS ABOUT THE TELEPHONE.

An average of a million conversations a day are now carried over the telephone in the city of Detroit.

The American people, who number but 6 per cent of the total population of the globe, have 63 per cent of all the telephones in the world.

Dallas, Texas, has, in proportion to its population, over four times as many telephones as London, and over 25 times as many as Naples, Italy.

Among the forty-eight States that make up the United States of America, there are 26, each of which has more telephones than the entire kingdom of Italy.

In proportion to the population, Milwaukee has twice as many as Berlin, three times that of London or Paris, and eight times that of Rome.

It's easy to find fault, and yet some of us keep as busy at it as if there was a reward offered.

About the only time husbands get the last word is when they say: "All right, then, here's the money."

New York bandits took $43,000 from a jeweler. They got just about enough to pay their bill for a whole week at a fashionable hotel.

With all of the "blobs" that it boasted, we don't see where Congress was able to build anything.

Some wives never ask their husband's advice in a matter until they decide what they are going to do.

It's always said of the best of them: "He was a good man, but—" and he has to die to get them to quit using that word "but."

A Vermont man is named Darnit. It must be nice to be able to sign that name when you're making out a check to pay a bill.

We hope the man who always finds something to harp on will be as fortunate in the next world.

Wonder how much John D. would have been worth by now if he had been a plasterer or a bricklayer all his life?

When a girl says she'd rather walk home from church with one boy than ride home in a fine auto with another—that's love.

A man is usually content to know the same things you happen to know.

MUSCLE SHOALS SITUATION.

A few months ago business men and manufacturers in Southern States began to realize that they had a very direct interest in the development and distribution of the immense water power at Muscle Shoals.

It was undoubtedly this awakened public interest in the matter that prevented final congressional ratification of the Ford proposal, which would have tied this national asset up in the hands of one man for 100 years—50 years longer than our federal laws permit the leasing of government water power sites.

There has been scant favor shown in the South for the Norris substitute for the Ford offer, as government ownership and operation have little appeal.

Sentiment seems to be strongly in favor of private ownership, or lease, with the public simply guaranteed by all necessary restrictions.

If it is possible to make cheap fertilizer at Muscle Shoals the people would like to see that done first, and then have the surplus power distributed to industry; and small customers under State regulation and control as now in force with our private electric companies.

CHARLES W. BRYAN.

The nomination of Charles W. Bryan as the running mate of John W. Davis will meet with the hearty approval of Democrats everywhere. In this connection, it is perhaps not amiss to say that Charles W. Bryan's chief distinction is not the fact that he happens to be the younger brother of William Jennings Bryan, three times the nominee of the Democratic party for President. This relationship may or may not have been instrumental in the recent nomination. But the fact remains that Charles W. Bryan has a splendid public record of his own, having rendered the great State of Nebraska splendid service as its governor.

As a newspaper man, Charles W. Bryan ranks among the best in the country, having built up a splendid publishing business in the city of Lincoln, where he has resided for many years, and his newspapers have long been a potential influence in the Northwest.

Governor Bryan will add considerable strength to the Democratic ticket, and he is big enough to fill any office within the gift of the American people.

ADVERTISING!

Advertisements are funny things sometimes, for example these, which all actually were printed these, "A respectable young woman wants washing."

"I will make coats, caps and boas for ladies out of their own skin."

"I want an overseer who can take care of 15,000 sheep who can speak French fluently."

"Wanted—A girl who can cook; one who will make a good stew."

"I want a husband with a strong Roman nose with strong religious tendencies."

"I will sell a fiddle of old wood that I made out of my own head and have wood left for another."

"For Sale—A small stock of the game whiskey drunk by His Majesty on his recent trip to Dublin."

"$100 reward for the recovery of the body of Hale Short, drowned in the river on the night of the 17th. The body can be recognized by the fact that Short had an impediment in his speech."

JOB HOLDERS.

Figures from authoritative sources assert that nearly 4,000,000,000 is paid out in the United States every year to public officials, active and retired.

These figures are not surprising when we know that nearly 3,500,000 persons are on the public payroll, federal, state and local.

Nearly one-half of the $8,500,000,000 spent yearly by our government goes to officials and former officials. Every taxpayer should understand that almost one-half of his taxes go to support office-holders.

One of Mussolini's first acts was to dismiss 100,000 men from the public pay roll.

Our trouble is that the job holder is the backbone of every political party. Jobs are the currency in which party debts are paid. And the currency is at present inflated.—San Francisco Examiner.

WHEN DAD WAS YOUNG.

When dad was young, people who had colds soaked their feet in hot water, took a few draughts of catnip and got well. Now they have la grippe, take quinine and feel sick all the summer. Then they had sore throat, wrapped a piece of bacon in an old wool sock, tied it around their neck at night and went to work next morning. Now they have tonsillitis, a surgical operation and two weeks in a hospital. Then they had colic and re- trouble and took castor oil and a week in the hospital and six feet due east and west and three feet perpendicular. In those days some of them wore underclothes; now they all wear lingerie. Then they went to a cafe. Then they broke a leg; now they fracture a limb. People went crazy; now they have brainstorms—or are born crazy, we don't know which.—Exchange.

EASIER SAID THAN DONE.

When a woman is sulky and will not speak—excite; if she gets too excited—control; if she talks too long—interrupt; if her way of thinking is not yours—advise; if she is willing to come all the way to meet you—receive; if she wanted to go further—dispatch; if she wanted to be an angel—transformer; if you think she is picking your pockets—detector; if she proves your fears are wrong—compensator; if she goes up in the air—condenser; if she sings inharmoniously—tuner; if she is in the country—telegrapher; if she is a poor cook—discharger; if her dress unhook—connector; if she eats too much—reducer; if she is wrong—rectifier; if her fingers are too cold—heater; if she gossips too much—cotton and potatoes last year above cost of production, including wages and interest on investment, and lost on wheat and oats.

WITH THE WITS.

Quick Service.

Mrs. Murphy had received a cablegram from her son in India saying that he would be home shortly. She showed it to her neighbor, Mrs. Casey.

"Wonderful quick things these telegrams, ain't they?" said Mrs. Casey.

"Quick ain't the word for it, the gum ain't dry yet what's on the envelope."—Exchange.

The Modern Girl.

"The modern girl thinks she's a live wire and the reformers agree she is shocking."

"The modern girl may know less about making bread, but she knows more about making dough."

"About all the modern girl knows about a needle is that you can use it only once on a gramophone!"—The World's Best.

Scared Off.

A clergyman in a small town was deploring the fact that none of the couples that came from the country to be married stopped at his house for the purpose.

"Well, brother," said the man addressed, "what can you expect with that big sign on the tree there, 'Five Dollars Fine For Hitching Here?'"—Sample Case.

Lapsus Typo.

An editor in a nearby town has moved his printing press over against the door and has his meals handed in at the window ever since he let this get by in a society item: "Mrs. Cat's popularity is evidenced by her many friends in the community," reports the Pammyra, Mo., Spectator.

Hence Lawyers.

The prisoner had been convicted a dozen times before. "Your honor," he said, "I would like to have my case postponed for a week. My lawyer is ill." But you were captured with your hands in this man's pocket. What can your counsel say in your defense?" "Precisely so, your honor. That is what I am curious to know."—Minneapolis Tribune.

Of Course.

He had been looking over the cards of greeting on the counter for some time, when the saleslady suggested: "He's a lovely sentiment, 'To the Only Girl I Ever Loved.'"

"That's fine," he said, brightening. "I'll take five—no, six of those, please."—American Legion Weekly.

Her Immunity.

After the epidemic had been checked an old negro protested vigorously when the health officers started to take down the sign they had put up on her house. "Why don't you want us to take it down?" the officers asked. "Ere ain't be'n a bill collectah neah dis house sence dat sign was nailed up. Youall please let it alone."—People's Home Journal.

Mandy, you didn't call for our wash for two weeks, yet you sent me a bill for it just the same."

"Yas'm. Ah done tuk a two weeks' vacation wif pay."—Life.

AGE AND SIZE OF COCKERELS DETERMINE TIME TO CAPONIZE.

Within the last few years the business of producing capons has grown rapidly in this country, and increasing numbers of capons are being raised in the Middle Western States. During the winter months capon is regularly quoted in the markets of the large Eastern cities. Massachusetts and New Jersey are the great centers for the growing of capons, while Boston, New York and Philadelphia are the important markets.

The time of year when caponizing should be performed, so far as the effects of the operation and the rapidity and ease of healing are concerned, is of little importance. The capons seem to recover and do well at any time. Certain other considerations, however, do influence the time, says the United States Department of Agriculture. The age and size of the cockerel are very important. As soon as the cockerels weigh 1½ to 2½ months, or when 2 to 4 pounds, they should be operated upon. The lower age and weight limits apply particularly to the American breeds, while the higher apply to the Asiatics. If smaller cockerels are operated upon, they will, their bodies do not give room enough to work hardy, and the other factors that should never be overlooked, as by this time the testicles have developed to a considerable extent, the spermatic arteries carry greater amounts of blood, and the danger of pricking these arteries and causing the fowl to bleed to death is greatly increased.

The fact that capons are in greatest demand and bring the best prices from the Christmas season until the end of March, and that it takes about ten months to grow and finish them, properly, makes it important to hatch the chicks in early spring so that they will be of the proper size for caponizing in June, July and August. These are by far the most popular months for the operation, though in some cases it is performed still later.

LOS ANGELES LEADS.

Of the large American cities, Los Angeles showed the greatest growth in telephone service during 1923. There was an increase during the year of 15.4 per cent in the number of telephones, making a total at the beginning of the year of 238,662, or 21.9, telephones per 100 population.

Farmers reporting to the United States Department of Agriculture that the average made money on corn, cotton and potatoes last year above cost of production, including wages and interest on investment, and lost on wheat and oats.

OVER THE WAY.

If the rose in the garden over the way:
Beckons and nods the livelong day;
If only to you its sweetness is shown;
If only for you its beauty is grown;
What do you care what the world may say,
If your heart owns the rose just over the way?

If only for you doth the heart unfold,
If only for you love's story is told,
If only for you the blush and the kiss,
If only for you this exquisite bliss—

What do you care what the world may say;
If your heart owns the rose just over the way?

'ROUND WE GO.

Tom's in love with Alice,
Alice is stuck on Ted;
Teddy is sweet on Marjorie,
And Marjorie's mashed on Fred.

Freddie's strong for Thelma,
Thelma's all for Harry,
Harry's bugs on sweet Marie,
Whom Jim is going to marry.

I'm a lovesick laddie,
I've a crush on Stella;
Stella is gone on Herbie,
And Herbie's dopped for Nell.

Nell is after Leo,
Leo is chasing Betty,
Betty's luck is all for Buck,
But Buck is set for Lettie.

Lettie is vamping Ralph,
It's a futile job—
His gifts go to fiddle Ruth,
And Ruth's soft on Bob.

Thus throughout the ages,
Seer and fool have found,
With all its aches, it still is love
That makes the world go 'round.

GETTING OUT A NEWSPAPER.

Getting out a paper is no joke.
If we print jokes folks say we are silly.

If we don't, they say we are too serious.

If we publish original matter they say we lack variety.

If we stay on the job, we ought to be out rustling news.

If we are rustling news, we are not attending to business in our own department.

If we don't print contributions, we don't show proper appreciation.

If we do print them, the paper is filled with junk.

Like as not some fellow will say we swiped this from an exchange.

So we did.

190 Paid Out by the Railroads every time the Clock Ticks.

Just a few years ago, the expression, "A billion dollar Congress," startled the people of this Nation. It seemed beyond the bounds of reason that this staggering sum of money would be required to run our Government.

Compare this figure with the fact that in 1923 the railroads of America distributed six billion dollars—a sum nearly twice as great as the entire expenditures of the National Government during that year.

Of this sum more than one billion dollars, representing new capital, practically all of which was borrowed, was invested in new equipment, new tracks, and added facilities. Out of the earnings of the railroads approximately two billion dollars were expended for fuel, steel, lumber and other supplies. More than three billion dollars went for wages; and approximately $336,000,000 was paid in taxes. Brought down to the smallest fraction of time, this staggering sum of six billion dollars represents an expenditure on the part of the railroads in your prosperity, and in the general prosperity of the Nation, of approximately $190 every time the clock ticks.

Reduced to the same unit of time, the Louisville & Nashville Railroad, in 1923 spent in the operation of its properties $3.67 per second, or a total of $317,000 per day—which figure includes labor, taxes, fuel and supplies, but does not include the $31,600,000 invested last year in new equipment and improvements to L. & N. property.

Remember that the railroads put more money into circulation than any other American institution, and that in one family out of every fifteen the bread-winner is a railroad employee.

—The dance given by the Catholic Neighborhood Circle No. 3 last Wednesday night was largely attended and proved a delightful success. It is announced that the regular dance for next Wednesday will be omitted on account of the big Fireman's Ball that will take place on that night. The following Wednesdays, however, will be devoted to the usual Terpsichorean festivities.

—Last Sunday morning Judge Starr officiated at the marriage of Mrs. Millie Mitchell and Mr. Edgar Mitchell, both of Pearl River county. The bride was a young, comely widow and not related to the groom before the ceremony. However, after the affable dignitary had officiated at the ceremony, the relation was of such a character that it would take a long legal wrangle to make it anything else.

—It is interesting to note Rev. Father Gmelch, pastor Church "Our Lady of the Gulf," is definitely planning the completion of the church this fall. This is the largest Catholic edifice in the State, and when completed will be the handsomest. The Catholics and population in general of Bay St. Louis are to be complimented for their success. The completion of the church will be marked with suitable ceremonies.

—With more direct connection from Bay St. Louis, Shell Beach-on-the-Bay, offers unlimited social advantages to visitors and Bay St. Louis residents. The Sea Coast and Bay St. Louis will have no greater and more genuine attraction for summer and winter. It can well be said of the "Shell-Beach-on-the-Bay" project that it is one of "great excitement," for the summer and winter resort will draw largely from its success.

—The completion of the "Hotel Weston" will fill a long-felt want and supply a means for the entertainment of visitors and others to Bay St. Louis that will prove incalculable benefit. The Hotel Weston is the last word in interior construction, and guests will appreciate the excellence of the services. The "Hotel Weston" will also be a social center of the city and vicinity and will easily fill an integral part in the general fabric of Bay St. Louis' greater growth and prosperity.

—Born—When? Wednesday, 30th, 1924. What time? 4:15 A. M. Now, what? A Boy! Weight? 8 1/2 lbs. Named what? Alphonse Gabriel Favre, Jr., but will fall heir to "Lil' Rouge" at early date. —Mrs. S. W. Prager returned on Wednesday afternoon from New Orleans, where she went to attend the wedding of Miss Evabelle Prague to Mr. J. Albert Baudeau. The bride will be remembered here, as she spent several summer seasons in the Bay as the guest of Mrs. P. J. French. She is a very charming young lady and was quite a favorite at Newcomb, where she graduated recently. The groom is in the security department of the Hibernia Bank. The wedding took place on July 30, at Mater Dolorosa Church, in Carroll avenue, at a nuptial mass. The happy couple will spend a part of their honeymoon at Asheville, N. C.

WEDDING IN NEW ORLEANS

Next Tuesday Morning, Will Be of Interest to Residents of Bay St. Louis.

Claiming much interest this week will be the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Alice Born, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Born, of New Orleans and Bay St. Louis, to Mr. Herbert William Christenberry, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Christenberry, of New Orleans.

The wedding will be solemnized Tuesday, August 5th, at 8 o'clock a. m., nuptial mass, St. Mary's Assumption Church, in Josephine, near Constance street, New Orleans. The Reverend Father A. Peret, C. SS., R., will officiate.

Miss Born will have as her maid of honor her sister, Miss Esther Claire Born, and as her attendants Miss Helen Christenberry, sister of the groom-to-be; Miss Augusta Sulzer and Miss Mandana Thayer. Mr. Christenberry will have as best man his brother, Earle J. Christenberry, and as attendants Mr. Edward C. Born, brother of the bride-elect; Mr. Alfred M. Guilbeau, of Opelousas, La., and Mr. Herbert G. Vosheim. The ushers will be Messrs. Cordes Goodman, of Mobile, Ala.; Herve Racivitch, Arthur L. Zammit and Joseph M. Gaudet.

There will be a reception at the residence of the bride-elect's parents in Magazine, corner Second street, immediately following the ceremony.

PROCLAMATION.

Mayor R. W. Webb Issues Call to Citizens, Declaring Wednesday, August 3, a Half Holiday.

Whereas, the local fire company has done great work in the protection of homes and other buildings from destruction by fire, and Whereas, these men have, aside from their regular duties, assisted in the Fireman's Day, to celebrate and have a benefit entertainment, and as it is the duty of our citizens to aid and encourage their good work;

Therefore, I, R. W. Webb, Mayor of the City of Bay St. Louis, hereby proclaim the afternoon of Wednesday, August 3, 1924, as a half holiday and various committees and visitors to attend their celebration.

Proclaimed and declared by me this 2nd day of August, 1924.

R. W. WEBB, Mayor.

CARD OF THANKS.

In connection with the mid-summer fair given last Saturday and Sunday for the benefit of Our Lady of the Gulf, I beg to express my sincere thanks to all the ladies and gentlemen who have so generously and also to the Rev. Father Gmelch for their co-operation in making a big success of our fair. I also wish to thank Mr. Albert Jones and his staff for their management of the traffic, which also contributed to our success.

FAMOUS COW DONATED FOR SCIENTIFIC STUDY.

Sentiment prevented the famous cow, Sophie Nineteenth, of Hood Farm, from being sold at auction and falling into unfeeling hands when the herd of which she was a member was dispersed a year ago in April. Her owner, Mrs. C. L. Hood of Lowell, Mass., preferred instead to let this world's champion Jersey cow continue to add to the world's good through her contribution to scientific research, and, accordingly, donated her to the United States Department of Agriculture. Her career as an active producer of dairy products had ceased.

She arrived at the department experimental farm on May 13, and on June 19 she was chloroformed and prepared for study. Outward measurements were made of her body while she was still alive; and afterward the size and weight of her various internal organs were secured. Her wonderful record in production of milk and butterfat over so long a period of time makes the data secured from her, an especially valuable contribution to the study that is being made by the Bureau of Dairying of the relation between conformation of dairy cattle and their producing ability. Her skeleton will be prepared and mounted by an expert from the Smithsonian Institution and will be used for study purposes in the laboratory of the Bureau of Dairying.

Sophie Nineteenth held the world's record for butterfat production in the Jersey breed from January, 1914, to November, 1918, with a production of 17,567 pounds of milk and 999 pounds of butterfat in a year. During 11 lactation periods she produced over 7,500 pounds of butterfat. This is the long-time production record for all breeds.

BE CAREFUL THIS SUMMER.

Careless campers who leave their fires burning in the woods, or toss lighted cigars and cigarette stubs into the brush, burned last season more timber land than was cut by all saw mills in the country last year. Reforestation has been recognized for years as one of the great necessities. Something is being accomplished in this direction. But forest fires at present wipe out much more timber every year than is being regrown.

Records kept by the forest service show that every year the area of forest land swept by fire is about twice as great as the area cut over by logging operations.

Four-fifths of the fires each year are man made. They might be prevented by the exercise of ordinary care. Most of them start from hot coals left by campers or picnickers or from lighted cigarette butts, and some of them come through carelessness of settlers in burning up stump piles and brush heaps.

The burned-over acreage is largely cut-over land, which reduces the monetary loss, but the potential destruction is nevertheless terrific, for the fires on the cut-over acreage destroy the seeds and young growth that would reforest the land.

The forestry service says the first important step in reforestation is to start the growth on the cut-over land, and on much of this land "effective protection against fire will be all that is necessary for this purpose."

DEMOCRACY STILL LIVES.

Some of the metropolitan newspapers are proclaiming the demise of the Democratic party, as the result of the convention deadlock. But there is a grave suspicion that the wish is, in most instances, "father to the thought."

This is not the first time that the Democratic party has passed through a crisis within its own ranks, and it is not the first time that its enemies have predicted its passing. And, in the course of future events, there is no reason to believe that the last obstacle to party success and party harmony has been removed.

The bitterness engendered at New York will be reflected at the polls in November. Some of those who failed to accomplish their selfish purposes, or failed to gratify some selfish ambition—and some of those who were thwarted in their efforts to promote the public interest—may vote for Coolidge or LaFollette. But it is our candid judgment that this defection will be small, and that the chances for Democratic success were really never brighter than now.

The record of the Republican party is bad. Charges of graft and crookedness against high officials of the government have been sustained, and there is a disposition on the part of the voters to administer a "severe" rebuke at the polls. Moreover, this is a conviction in general that the Republican party is the instrument of Big Business, and that its leaders are the willing tools of those who would enrich the few at the expense of the many.

This sentiment is especially strong in the West and the South, and the West and the South learned in 1916 that they could elect a President, whenever they desired to do so.

The differences encountered at New York were not political. Those who participated in the convention are agreed on the fundamentals of the party, and they will soon forget what religious and racial differences have been injected into the deliberations of the convention.

For these reasons, we are going to take a cheerful view of the situation, and we confidently expect a Democratic triumph at the polls in November.

SIGNS WITHOUT END.

All of the countless signs and sign boards encountered along the motor highways detract from the beauty of the scenery, but not all of them are without advantage to even the tourist's sight.

There is a valuable message as well as homely wit in the following specimens from the official sign-boards of our highways:

"This is a good road. It will cost you money to turn it up."

"Drive slow and see our city. Drive fast and see our jail."

"Slow down. Look before you weep."

"Don't crowd your neighbor's side of the road."

"Stop—Look—and Live."

"Don't speed. It is 'Good morning, Judge,' here is hereafter."

Unfortunately, these signs are for those motorists who habitually drive fast. The signs are to be annoyed by the most unsightly advertising poster boards. To the careful driver these enumerated signs are as the "word to the wise," and a protection against accident and speed costs.

Highway advertising signs have become a problem. They mar the natural beauty of the roadside, obstruct the vision of drivers and detract attention from the roadway. Index boards or direction signs are invaluable, but generally absent themselves when most needed. Speed signs and "drive cautiously" warnings are not hard to find. But the unsightly and vision obstructing advertising poster boards are ubiquitous.

State and federal highway departments, public officials and automobile associations are to be commended for steps they have taken recently toward the provision of more and better direction, mileage and warning signs and the curtailing and regulation of roadside advertising sign-boards. Limiting the size and distance from the highways of these latter signs was a step forward.

FATE IN AN AUGER HOLE.

Shakespeare tells us that a man's fate may be hid in a thing so small as an auger hole, whence it may leap out upon him without warning, to a fatal result.

Two recent tragic happenings have impressed his meaning painfully upon the general consciousness. First, the son of the President lost his life from a cause so trivial as the chafing of his unprotected heel at tennis. And now a boy is cut off in the first flush of promising young manhood because of the chafing of his unprotected heel by a pair of ill-fitting shoes.

These happenings brought death with such incredible and alarming swiftness and the poison was worked in the blood so subtly and insidiously that many have found themselves asking in dismay: "Who, then, is safe?" The things that took precious lives and have left survivors inconsolable were such occurrences as are in our own familiar experience of every day.

Medical science turns a fresh page of learning constantly in the knowledge of bacterial poisoning. What was once merely regarded as a providential dispensation not to be questioned is now calmly scrutinized by the clear, impartial gaze of science, that a remedial process may be determined. We have learned to examine, to analyze, to apply antiseptics freely at the first hint of danger. And the preventive processes affecting the question of pure food are under a stricter surveillance than ever.

It is time to recognize the fact that preventive medicine is more valuable than curative. All the learning of the schools is of no avail when it comes too late. The most eminent physician is helpless when his technique is pitted against a melody that had done its fell work before he arrived upon the scene. Part of the vital campaign for safety first should be to assure the presence and prompt application of such remedies as are already known to be effective when used in time.—New York Post.

RADIO FACTS.

Few persons need to be told how rapidly radio is interpenetrating every part of our daily life. A writer has contributed to June Century a most comprehensive article.

More than 2,500,000 radio sets have been manufactured and sold in the last three years in this country, with 560 broadcasting stations in operation in our United States, and 16,000 amateur transmitters sending and receiving by radio.

According to engineers of the Radio Corporation, 3,000 manufacturers are turning out sets or parts of sets, thirty radio magazines have been started, 250 books have been written, 20,000,000 listeners constitute the present (spring of 1924) radio audience, and these spent $175,000,000 on their hobby last year, giving employment in one way or another to 500,000 persons. There are twelve transoceanic stations, which communicate not only with Europe and Latin America, but with 2,700 radio-equipped ships.

BANK FAILURES.

Senator Harrison, in his speech at the New York convention, pointed out some interesting figures on bank failures in the United States.

Naturally, this was done to benefit Democratic prestige. He wants the country to know that a Democratic administration doesn't mean financial wrecking, as some of its opponents preach.

In the Democratic year of 1917 the country experienced seven national bank failures, says the senator, who continued: "In the Democratic year of 1918 the country experienced two national bank failures. And in the Democratic year of 1919 the country experienced only one national bank failure."

On the other hand, "within less than four years of Republican normalcy more than 1,357 banks have failed, and millions of people bankrupted. During the first three months of this year 265 banks have failed, with total liabilities of over $100,000,000."—Yazoo Sentinel.

No insurance has yet been found which will prevent death and destruction from fire or accidents; hence it pays to be careful.

We met one citizen recently who said he only believes half he hears and even at that generally hears the wrong half.

AMENDMENT TO CHARTER OF THE PEOPLE'S BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATION.

Be it remembered, that on the 9th day of May, A. D. 1924, at a special meeting of the stockholders of the People's Building and Loan Association, of Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, held at its office in the City of Bay St. Louis, Miss., and to which meeting notice of same, together with a copy of the proposed amendment, had been duly mailed to each and all of its stockholders, at which meeting a majority of the stock was present and approved a resolution to amend and alter said charter, as follows:

Be it Resolved, That the Charter of the People's Building and Loan Association, as amended, be and the same is hereby amended.

Section I shall read as follows:

The purposes for which this corporation is created are: To assist the members thereof in purchasing real estate and homesteads in the City of Bay St. Louis and the Town of Waveland, Miss.; to build, improve and remove encumbrances therefrom; and to accumulate an investment fund through payments by members on installment shares, or from money received for full paid stock, or otherwise, and to loan said funds on first mortgage on real estate, or on shares of the said stock, as follows:

Section V shall read as follows:

The shares of stock of this Association shall have a par value of $100.00, and shall be of two classes: (1) Installment shares, and there shall be no cash dividend on such shares until the time of payment to be fixed by the Association; (2) Full paid stock, to be paid for in full at the time of issue, and no preference as to rate of dividend shall be given any form of stock. Dividends on full paid stock shall be paid in cash.

Section VI shall read as follows:

Every stockholder who fails to pay the monthly installment on his shares or interest due by him when same shall become due, shall pay, in addition to the amount of the installment due, a penalty of ten (10) cents per month on each share of stock until the time of payment. The amount paid in on stock shall be non-refundable in the event of the stockholder's failure to pay the installment due, after due notice mailed in him at his last registered address, to pay the installment due, within a period of twelve (12) months, shall cease to be credited with dividends on his stock. Section VII shall read as follows:

Withdrawals: The full amount paid in on installment stock, together with ten (10) per cent of the profit declared on his stock for each year that he has been a stockholder, shall be refunded to him. The full amount of the profit on the stock, with all dividend profits, shall be withdrawable, and paid to the owner thereof. Withdrawals shall be a part of the first unappropriated money in the treasury, less his or her proportion of losses. If any, incurred by the Association up to the date of withdrawal. Stock shall be withdrawable on filing notice with the Secretary, and said notice shall be registered in relation to the stock, and shall be in order.
